JUDGE ESTEE'S DECISION

BLAMES CLAUDINE FOR WRECK OF CARSON.

Grills Officers of Steamer for Lack of Caution—Carson Sustained At Every Point.

Judge Estee this morning handed down a decision in the combined cases of J. S. Low and Captain John Pitz against the steamer Claudine and the Wilder Steamship Company, in favor of the petitioners at every point, save that a claim for articles belonging to Mrs. Pitz was not allowed. It not being shown that Captain John Pitz had authority to sue for J. S. Low, the award of $9,000, representing the value of the cargo of the Carson, which was lost; Captain Pitz is awarded $1,625.00, being the value of his private effects in the wreck. Both get interest from the time of the collision and all costs.

It took more than a half hour to read the decision. Numerous authorities were quoted. In several places the court mercilessly grilled the second mate of the Claudine and other officers of the vessel. Summed up, the findings of Judge Estee are as follows: The lights of the William Carson on the night of the accident were properly constructed, were placed according to law, were burning brightly all the time and could be seen for a distance of two miles, as provided for by the regulations; that the Claudine had no lookout that the second mate of the Claudine saw the green light of the William Carson all the time, and allowed his vessel to go right on to the danger; no effort was made to slow up or to avoid the accident.

Wilder Steamship Company came in for a roasting for not producing the sheet rope which figured so much in evidence. It seems that the company bought the wreck and the court declared that it had kept out valuable evidence which in some cases is a serious matter.

Judge Estee found from a hearing of the evidence that the second mate of the Claudine saw the Carson's light straight ahead a half hour before the collision. The second mate was running the ship, the captain and first mate being down stairs or some where else. The officer on the bridge left his post and went down stairs to look for the captain, leaving the steamer to run itself. When the captain was finally found and gotten on deck he concluded that the light was too far ahead to bother with. Just then the first mate came up, and immediately exclaimed: "What are you doing, to port of that green light?" The order was given "port the helm" which was executed, but too late. According to the evidence the Claudine ran about 1,000 feet after the order referred to before she struck the Carson. Judge Estee thought that she could have been slowed down in 500 feet, and the accident thus averted.

The officers of the Claudine were condemned as either not knowing or not caring what they were doing. Judge Estee called attention to the old regulation that a steamer must avoid a sailing vessel at sea, and under no ordinary circumstances should a steamer cross the bow of such a vessel. Judge Estee declared that the lack of a lookout on the Claudine was simply unpardonable and the lack of discipline was something inexcusable and for which there was no apology.

The court remarked that Hawaiian laws were as severe as those of the United States in such cases, and referred to several decisions of the Hawaiian Supreme court bearing upon different points.

Following the reading of the decision Attorney E. B. McClanahan noted exceptions and gave notice of appeal to the Court of Appeals of the Ninth Circuit.

CHINATOWN'S CONDITION

DR. ARMITAGE MAKES STARTLING DISCLOSURES.

Report to Superintendent McCandless Sets Sanitary Schemes in Motion—The Actual Condition.

The startling statement was this morning made by Dr. J. H. Raymond, president of the Board of Health, to J. A. McCandless, superintendent of public works, that new Chinatown beyond Nuuanu stream is getting in a condition as insanitary and dangerous as old Chinatown was prior to the outbreak of plague a year ago. Surprise was expressed at this disclosure, for the district is new and most of the houses have been occupied only a few months. Moreover, the new regulations in regard to cess-pools, floors, standing water, etc., have been enforced in each building. At the same time the well known scope of Dr. Armitage's judgment on sanitation, coupled with his conservatism in the matter of giving unnecessary or unusual annoyance to the public, or any part of it, caused those who heard the statement to apprehend that the condition of things in Chinatown was very bad.

Such proves to be the case. New Chinatown is already a disease breeding slough. Of course the recent storms have had something to do with it, flooding yards, creating duck ponds here and there and dampening the ground beneath houses. The chief fault, however, is with the people themselves. Their filthy customs were not purged by the great fire of last January. The filth is confined to cess-pools, not stagnant ponds but is to be found in yards, under houses and even inside of many living rooms. On the town side of the Cross building and from the building beyond the Fountain saloon to Liliha and Vineyard street the condition of things is exceedingly bad and is daily getting worse. From Palama chapel to the lumber yard near the depot is already a place where germs would strike a man. The restaurants in Liliha street are in a miserable condition. In fact the only one in the whole settlement that does not grate on the olfactory nerves is the small establishment near the Royal school.

The fault is not with the buildings but with the people themselves. A white person could occupy almost any one of the houses a life time without getting them in the condition most of them are in.

The danger light thrown out by Dr. Raymond this morning is already being heeded. Superintendent McCandless will at once proceed to fill in the low places condemned by the Health Board. The inspection department has been instructed and has detailed his best inspectors to Chinatown. Dr. Raymond's policy will be to prosecute a vigorous campaign until the district is in thoroughly good condition and to then keep it so.

USING COMPRESSED AIR.

First Introduced as Mechanical Power in Hawaii.

Something of a novelty in mechanical appliances in Hawaii is in use in the work of excavating for the foundations of the Alexander Young building. It is the use of compressed air as the operating power for the drill used in blasting and excavating. It is said this is the first use of compressed air in the islands. A great advantage of compressed air is that it can be carried to much greater distances than steam can, not being condensed as steam is.

A gasoline engine is used to compress the air. The compressed air is then carried by an iron pipe line to where it is needed, the connection with the drill being made by a flexible rubber tube. Its action in generating power is almost identical with that of steam. It is let into a cylinder fitted with a piston, the compressed air expanding, alternately driving the piston back and forth. The operation of compressed air can be distinguished from that of steam by the exhaust.

Compressed air is used very extensively in deep mining operations and where power has to be carried long distances.

THE MYSTERY UNSOLVED

CLARA SCHNEIDER'S DEATH NOT EXPLAINED.

The Soldier's Suicide and His Girl Friend's Death by Poisoning Connected Only by Inference.

How Miss Clara Schneider received the poison that caused her death will probably never be known. The coroner's jury in the case ended its long labors this afternoon, with an "open" verdict. It was not able to decide whether Miss Schneider had committed suicide or had been murdered by the administration of poison, and in the absence of any testimony to shed light on what took place on the last night of her life, when she went out to meet Bennett, there is little probability that the mystery will ever be cleared up.

It has not been shown that Miss Schneider met Bennett on the night when she was poisoned. Some of the evidence goes to show that Bennett never left his quarters at camp McKinley on that night.

The end of the investigation leaves Major Ennis' theory the only one that has much support. It is that Miss Bennett committed suicide when she found she could not get her money back from Bennett, and that the consciousness that he had caused her death drove her to suicide.

"He was the kind of man," says Major Ennis, "who would kill himself if he thought he had caused the death of a girl like that."

This afternoon Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth made a flying trip to Wai-ki to investigate the contents of an alleged medicine chest from which it was thought that Miss Schneider might have got morphine. He found no such chest. His efforts overthrew the last hope that light might be shed on the way in which the young woman got the poison. The investigation ends with nothing more known than that at some time before three or four o'clock on last Wednesday morning the girl swallowed the drug. Where she got it will, probably never be known, nor how she took it, nor where she ate the meal which the post mortem physicians saw as having been taken with or soon after the poison.

PLACED IT AT HIS FEET

HOW MCGURN SERVED SUMMONS ON W. H. CORNWELL.

Lord of Waikapu Gets Mad, But Deputy Sheriff Proves Equal to the Occasion.

Can a deputy sheriff compel a man to receive a court summons on a civil suit should he refuse to do so? This question weighed a ton in the brain of Albert McGurn, deputy sheriff for serving summons, when he attempted to deliver to defendant the bill in the suit of J. A. Magoon vs. W. H. Cornwall. McGurn met his man on Merchant street. The interview was not pleasant. Mr. Cornwall was already angry about the matter and his temper was boiling point when the officer announced his business. The result of the interview was left as near as possible to the person of said W. H. Cornwall, to wit, by being placed at the feet of said W. H. Cornwall while he was standing on Merchant street in the city of Honolulu.

The suit itself is not a usual one in this country of so many stock assessments. It is charged that Cornwall subscribed for twenty shares of the stock of the Sanitary Steam Laundry Co., but has paid none of the assessments. The first half of the amount, $500, seems to be secured by an "I. O. U." for that amount. The further sums of $250 and $250 were called for in July and September but were not paid.

The suit is interesting as it involves the question of the liability of a subscriber to some plantation stocks as well. If the debt is held to be legal, certain plantations for the stock of which subscribers signed will not have such trouble in collecting assessments.

In the suit of John Fowler Co. Limited, vs. Robert Catton and G. W. Macfarlane and the suit of G. W. Macfarlane vs. Robert Catton, both bills being for accounting, it has been stipulated by and between counsel for the parties that defendant Robert Catton be allowed until January 3 in which he plead, answer or demur.

J. A. Magoon, administrator of the estate of the late Alina has filed his accounts, showing receipts to have been $3,049.10 and expenditures $3,043.54.

"SCOPE" COMMITTEE.

The "scope" committee of the Republican charter commission held a meeting this morning and adopted plans for proceeding which will be submitted tonight to the commission for approval.

DEAD CHILD FOUND.

The dead body of a child was found yesterday afternoon near the sewer outlet at Kakaako. It was much decomposed and even the nationality could not be ascertained. A post mortem by Drs. Pratt and Emerson showed that the child had been still born and the coroner's jury rendered a verdict accordingly.

CERTIFICATES ARE ISSUED

DR. RUSSELL OF OLAA GETS HIS.

Committee of Independents Wait on Secretary Cooper and Receive Satisfactory Response to Their Inquiries.

The Independents do not take any stock in the report that Secretary Cooper has instructed Sheriff Andrews of Hawaii to refuse an election certificate to Dr. Russell their candidate for senator from Oloa and issue such certificate to Mr. Holstein. In fact the government has no such intention of trying to thwart the vote of the people of that district and has already issued the certificate. This fact was ascertained yesterday.

A committee of four from the Independent party of which Robert Boyd was the chairman waited upon Mr. Cooper to ascertain why the certificates of J. B. Kaohi, senator from North Kohala, and Ewaliko, representative from Hilo, had not been received by those successful Independent candidates. Information from those gentlemen was to the effect that their certificates had not been received by the 14th. Mr. Cooper showed the committee the original certificates of election issued to these officers, as well as that of Dr. Russell. Inasmuch as all the certificates had been issued by the 10th of this month the delay in their receipt was not the fault of the secretary's department but probably in the transmission through the mails. No complaint has been received from Dr. Russell so the presumption is that he has received his certificate.

IT WAS A DAY OF JOY

DAN MCPHERSON MAKES A RECORD.

Gets Six Charges of Drunkenness in Quick Succession—Event in the Lives of the "Regulars."

Six charges of drunkenness in three days, the record set to date to the credit of Dan McPherson. This morning, with his last chance to bail himself out he appeared in the police court, sobering up perforce.

"Number 14," Dan McPherson, charged with being drunk, was called and Dan stood up and pleaded guilty. The judge fined him $3 and costs and he sat down.

"Number 22," Dan McPherson, said the Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth, and McPherson stood up again, evidently somewhat bewildered. This time it was being drunk on the 19th, instead of the 18th, as in the previous charge. McPherson said it was "the same one" and the judge let him go with a reprimand. His troubles were not over yet, however.

Case number 17 Dan McPherson again, was called next and once more McPherson rose in his seat. This time a nolle prosequere was entered. It was the same old story. McPherson had bailed himself out too soon and had started over again. Now he will have to stay in "all long enough to satisfy the law's demands for $2 and costs."

Jacobson was another man who had two charges against him and Frank Lawless made his inevitable reappearance.

Yesterday was a day of joy for the steady ones. A new saloon, a large place, bright with pretty new fittings and best of all, having a hospitable proprietor was "opened." That meant free booze. From the opening time until the time to close up the place was crowded, and a few of the regular customers at Judge Wilcox's dispensary of justice fell by the wayside.

THE COOK ISLANDS.

SYDNEY, December 3.—According to the reports which came to hand on Saturday by the Elingamite from the Cook Islands, via Auckland, the question which is agitating the minds of the Europeans at Rarotonga is as to how the government purposes administering the affairs in the Cook group. The present rulers (natives) appear to regard the situation complacently in the belief that no change will be made; while the whites are expecting most important changes. The tardy progress of the group is attributed by the latter to the non-cultivation of valuable waste lands. The old order of the land was vested in a few chiefs who have their tribes living on these lands, but the natives will not cultivate beyond their actual wants, nor will they allow others to do so. A few foreigners have succeeded in leasing land from the chiefs, but have found that in order to make any headway labor must be imported.

A TALE OF COPPER CENTS

F. S. DODGE PUZZLES CAR MAN WITH NEW MONEY.

Insists on Paying Fare With the Wee Yellow Coins and is Allowed to Ride Free—A Car Scene.

Frank S. Dodge rode on a tramcar from Alakoa street to Kamehameha school this afternoon and did not pay his fare. It was not because Mr. Dodge was "broke" at the time, nor that he had known the conductor back east nor that he is an official of the road, but the civil engineer of the Bishop Estate wanted to initiate the tram people into the appearance and uses of American money that the diversion was undertaken.

Yesterday Mr. Dodge had occasion to make several deals at the Honolulu post office. Each time he received a few copper one cent pieces in change. It may be explained that nothing less than a nickel was used here until Uncle Sam put postal cards and stamps on sale.

Mr. Dodge is a believer in the one cent piece and thinks the time for its use has come. He tried the banks and found they were good although none of them would take more than one cent at a time. Next he thought of the tram car drivers and Mr. Pain's mule company. He boarded the car with a wicked look in his eye. Dealing into his pockets he drew out a handful of "coppers" and counted out five of them. The conductor came along smiling and the surveyor placed them gently into his hand.

The conductor was a son of Portugal and knew not of the copper cent and its invaluable service in the "Cheap John" stores back east. He had not heard of Charles Broadway Rouse and the way he used to sell a dollar's worth of goods for 20 cents, to induce a suspicion of cheapness. He stood for a moment gazing open mouth at the handful of yellow metal. Then:

"No, no, Senhor; no, no, I no sabe the mon."

"But you must 'sabe' it," retorted the surveyor sharply. "That is American money; American legal tender, and you must take it."

"Eu facio into o Senhor. Pain fica renado. Pain too much hoocho me I have no order. Oh my goodness, I no know what do."

"Now, look here, I came on this car to ride, not to talk Portuguese. I have paid my fare and that is the end of it."

"Yes, Senhor; but I no want. Money no all same the nick."

"Well, you'll take that or you will take nothing. I will not give you a nickel nor any other kind of money."

The driver hesitated for a moment, looked at the money, then at Mr. Dodge. The surveyor's face looked determined. The dozen passengers were watching the result with keen interest.

"All right; better you take your money and ride free this time. Me no sabe none, no sabe you," the conductor concluded, handing back the money and retreating to the front platform.

There was a merry giggle among the passengers. Mr. Dodge settled back in his seat for the ride to the end of the line, determined to offer copper cents again for the ride back.

TWO JAPANESE KILLED

A Japanese workman at Elele met with a frightful death on the wharf last Tuesday. He was crushed beneath a six-ton piece of machinery which was being loaded on to a car. The Jap's body was so mutilated as to be unrecognizable, and the pieces were carried away in a sack.

The piece of iron that killed the Jap was what was left of the Nihon's last trip and had been turned over to the railroad. It was standing upright alone, when the Jap stooped down by it to fix some gear. The lines became entangled and the heavy piece of iron fell over on to the Jap. Death must have been instantaneous, as the body was mashed flat. The Jap was one of the men employed at the plantation.

A Japanese laborer named Matsumura was run over by a dray on King street at about six o'clock and almost killed on the spot. He was riding his wheel towards the city and the dray was going the other way. Matsumura was the dray at Kawaiahao church and ran into a pile of stones. His wheel was upset and he fell under the hind wheels of the heavy wagon.

One wheel passed over the man's body, crushing it fearfully, but it missed his head, and he was still alive when picked up. He was taken to the hospital. The doctors give no hope of his recovery.

The accident was not seen at all by the driver of the dray, who is one of Huetak and company men. The Jap passed by him and did not fall till he had passed behind the driver.

TO FLOAT MCBRYDE STOCK.

Large Quantity May Be Sold on the Coast.

C. H. W. Norton took passage on the Merveia last night for Vancouver. Considerable interest is attached to his departure by stock brokers as he is said to have an option on $500,000 worth of McBryde Sugar stock which he proposes to float on the Coast. It is said that many prominent brokers at the time for floating some of the stocks of the newer plantations is ripe and that capitalists will take advantage of the opportunity for investment.

Whether Mr. Norton is acting solely for himself is not generally known but it is thought very likely that some of the stock is held by himself. The mission of Mr. Norton evidently had an influence upon the McBryde stock as it has risen nearly a point today some assessable being sold at a fraction over $10 a share.

HE QUOTES VANDERBILT

JUDGE WILCOX APPLIES FAMOUS REMARK.

A Roast for Contractors Working on the Young Building—Mallet's Sentence is Suspended.

"The public be—," said Vanderbilt once, and Judge Wilcox says that that is what somebody remarked when he took charge of the operations at the big new Young building. In the case of J. F. Mallet, who was charged with doing blasting in a manner dangerous to the lives of the others, the judge suspended sentence, on motion of the prosecution, sentence being held over the defendant as an incentive to him to be careful in the future. He was fined $100 for a similar offense two weeks ago.

Mallet pleaded guilty to having set off a dangerous blast, but said that it was an error. Attorney W. O. Smith appeared for the plaintiff. He said that Mallet would probably be very careful in the future if he knew that he was liable at any time to be called into court and sentenced without another trial. The blasting was necessary in the construction of a great public improvement as it had been necessary for other buildings, and Smith promised that great care would be exercised in future.

"It seems to me," said Judge Wilcox, "that the people who are putting up that building have been going ahead all the time without the least regard for the rights of others. They have flooded our streets for weeks at a time, and complaints did no good. They put no pipes in to carry the water, and then they began to blast and send rocks over the streets. It looks like 'the public be damned' policy all through. 'In this case I shall suspend sentence for four months. In the meantime if there are further complaints the defendant will be liable to summary sentence.'"
